Oklahoma shuffle leader ill

As this edition of Lagging4s was being prepared for publication, news of the illness of Don Crall was received.

Don, who has been running thee Southwest Open in Del City, Okla., for several years has suffered an aneurysm with severe complications.

Doctors are draining excess blood from Don's brain while they evaluate their options.

He could undergo surgery as early as Tuesday or Wednesday this week.

Family members are consulting with a specialist in St. Louis to see if Don is a candidate for a special type of surgery.

Despite his 78 years, Don is a good candidate for this surgery because he is in overall good health.

Don would be in intensive care for at least 30 days if the surgery is performed.

Family members are asking that no flowers at this time or after surgery because there's no room for them.

Cards and good wishes can be mailed in care of American Legion Post 73, PO Box 15073, Del City, OK 73155.

His family members will personally deliver cards to Don

RENO, Nev. — The 15th annual North American Shuffleboard Championships at the Sands/Regency Hotel, scheduled for Oct. 30 - Nov. 7, is a tribute to survival and resiliency, mirroring the history of shuffleboard.

Sponsored by the Shuffleboard Federation and the Sands/Regency the championships features 13 separate tournaments as well as a 15th anniversary party that could turn into the week's signature event.

Tournament director John McDermott thinks the Friday night party, hosted by the Sands/Regency could become a regular event, calling it a "signature moment" along the line of the New Year's Eve party during the Holiday Open in Houston.

The winner of the Sol Lipkin Award will be named during the Friday night party and several other awards will be presented.

Another highlight of the Friday night event will be the induction of McDermott into the National Shuffleboard Hall of Fame.

"I'm pretty excited about that," McDermott said during a telephone interview on Monday. "I consider it one of the high points of my career and the opportunity to have it happen at this tournament is pretty special

Deadline nears for testimonials

California's Lorraine Olson is recruiting people to write testimonials about John McDermott that will be included in the booklet commemorating his induction into the Table Shuffleboard National Hall of Fame. The induction takes place on Friday, Nov. 5 during the North American Shuffleboard Championships.

McDermott's company, The Shuffleboard Federation, sponsors the tournament. McDermott is one of the top players in the country in addition to being one of the game's most ardent supporters.

Time is of the essence for Lorraine. She needs your thoughts about John no later than October 15. Send your testimonial to her at Lorraine.Olson@vta.org.

Blue Goose A-B-C results

PORT ORCHARD — Jim Tribble-Clara Kenney-Judy George went undefeated Saturday and Sunday to claim first place in the A-B-C tournament at the Blue Goose Tavern.

The trio beat Gary George-Sharon Nugent-Drew Skinner in the winners' bracket final and again in the championship match.

Third went to the team of Tim Nugent-Paulette McKinney-Joe Pazkowski.

Blue Goose owner Dee Hudson added $500 to the entry fee pot as nine teams took part in the tournament.

to me."

Also, during the party, the Sands/Regency will award $10,000 in prize money in the form of 50 awards of $200 each.

"The people who win are really excited about it," McDermott said. "It's a blast."

McDermott said the Sands/Regency had previously added money to the various tournaments but found it had little influence on the number of people playing.

"The money we added to tournaments didn't really make a difference for winners who were already getting some pretty nice envelopes," McDermott said.

Getting to the 15th year of the North American Shuffleboard Championships hasn't been without trials and tribulations.

McDermott and the Shuffleboard Federation had been putting on tournaments in hotel venues across the country before the first NASC at the Sahara in Las Vegas.

"It was apparent that it wasn't financially viable for us to be in Las Vegas," McDermott said. "Shuffleboard was too small and the hotels too big and we lost money there."

Deciding that Las Vegas wasn't going to be home for the NASC, McDermott was exploring other options when representatives of the Sands/Regency called him after hearing about the Vegas experience.

"The Sands/Regency had carved a niche with special events," McDermott said. Those special events included pool tournaments as well as backgammon, chess and cribbage events. Shuffleboard was looking for a special niche.

The hotel and the shuffleboard company joined forces for one tournament and then another.

By 1996 the championship was attracting nearly 300 players, but there were dark clouds on the horizon.

Shuffleboards rented from other parts of the country didn't fare well in Reno's low humidity.

"We used humidifiers, we sprayed water on the bottom of the boards," McDermott recalled. Still the boards didn't play well, sometimes cracking as the moisture was sucked out of them.

Players stopped coming to the tournament because of the boards, McDermott said.

It was a turning point for the championship.

"I told the Sands that we didn't want the tournament to die a slow death and we should discontinue the tournament," McDermott said.

But management at the Sands/Regency had a different idea, spending $80,000 plus for 24 new boards that would be stored on the hotel's property in order to eliminate humidity problems.

"It's been great for us and great for them," McDermott said of the new arrangement. "It allowed the tournament to continue to be strong."

McDermott said the boards are the best available in a large-venue tournament.

The tournament continued to grow reaching full capacity of 282 players in 2000.

When terrorists plowed airliners into the Pentagon and the World Trade Center, participation in the tournament dropped to the 165-170 range.

McDermott said the number of entries jumped to 220 in 2003 and he is anticipating 250 players will take part in the 2004 event. More than 150 people have already submitted their entries for the championships.

"We've been real fortunate in the traditional numbers we've attracted," McDermott said.

Players might be surprised at what part of the championships are his favorite.

"I love watching the whole setup process come together," McDermott said.

He recalled early tournaments when it took 14 or 15 hours to put 6 Playfair tables together compared to the eight hours it takes to arrangement the 24 tables at the Sands/Regency.

EMAIL: Send stories, pictures, advertisements and fliers to:

lagging4s@olympus.net

PICTURES: Send them as large as your camera outputs them. Photos that are reduced in size won't reproduce as well as larger ones.

PICTURE HINTS: Use a flash for indoor shots. Have players take off their hats, they make bad shadows. If you're shooting outside, have the sun at your back and shoot flash if your camera will do that. Remember to identify everyone in the picture
