Freddie Thuman succumbs

This kiss on the top of John McDermott's head during his induction into the National Shuffleboard Hall of Fame was one of the reasons Freddie Thuman was called "The Clownprince of Shuffleboard." Thuman died last week.

AUBURN, Calif. — Fred Thumann, one of the true goodwill ambassadors of table shuffleboard, died last week at the age of 59. He had been battling cancer.

His death brought an outpouring of thoughts from people who had known him, on and off shuffleboards.

"We took many a road trip and shared thoughts about life," wrote Steven Perry on his website. "He was the most caring and gentle man I have ever known. And . . . he thought more of me than I ever did of myself.

"I shall miss you Freddie T. The world will surely not be as nice without you," Perry wrote.

Former Oregon shuffler Garry Singer said: "We all will miss Freddie's enormous heart and humor. I feel for those of us who are left behind, but who knows, if there is a "Great Shuffleboard" in the sky, Freddie is already setting up the action with all of our friends who passed before him.

This is a good time to feel the love and remember."

Thumann was inducted to the California Shuffleboard Hall of Fame last year.

Friend, of oftentime partner Hal Perry said: "In other words, I have seen Fred's act — and it's a good one. Maybe the best entertainment the game has ever seen. Maybe the best the gamem will ever see."

Another partner — and member of the Rat Pack in Sacramento — Joe Hudson recalled Thumann's determination to improve his game.

"We played our first tournament together in Yuba City at the Downers Club," Hudson remembered. "Our Calcutta sold for $20 and we played like it.

"That was all Fred needed, from that day on Fred worked on his game harder than anyone I've ever seen. he became one of the best players to hve ever played the game. Two great hands, fierce competitor and overall great guy."

Another Rat Pack member, Bob Hunt, called Thumann "one of the most colorful players in the game" as well as "a friend and a fine person."

Thumann and other California players started the shuffleboard tournament in the Las Vegas casino that has evolved into the North
